Parents Have Lost Control

Family Fare Editor

(This is the first in a special series on the juvenile crimes which have hit the area lately. How could such a thing happen here? Who is responsible?

Bobby Westbrook, Family Fare Editor, will touch on these and other important aspects of the problem.

Mrs. Westbrook is the mother of two grown children born and reared in this community. Her close work with PTA and welfare groups around the county well qualifies her to delve into this dilemma and to assess the situation in an objective manner.)

Assistance Expenditures Dip In April

Record Harrisburg Bureau for operation of Monroe County's public assistance program showed a decline during April, the State Department of Public Welfare said yesterday.

Total expenditure for the program in April, the department said, rounded out to $44,373 ($20,780 payable from federal funds, $23,593 from state funds). This compares with $51,187 in

Greatest portion of the overall $44,373 expenditure went for dents, the department noted. Assistance grants in Monroe County during the month totaled $38,999 ($43,597 in March) to 1061 persons (1241 the previous month). A breakdown shows $13,185 paid out to 506 countians receiving aid-todependent children assistance, $11.536 to 192 receiving old age assistance, $7,123 to 239 receiving general assistance, $3,788 to 56 receiving blind pensions and $3,367 to 68 receiving aid to disabled assistance.

Other expenditures in the county's public assistance program included $3,673 for administration, $1,531 for medical care and $170 for burials.

As with most other traffic safety problems, public attitude plays an unusual role. People generally condemn drunken driving, but they won't always support specific enforcement programs like chemical testing and as jury members they're inclined to be lenient.

"A learned California judge once pointed out that when an accused burglar faces a jury, it is extremely unlikely that he is looking at 12 unconvicted burglars," said Ira Cisin, director of drinking practices study for the California Department of Public Health. "But when a man is accused of drunken driving, it is quite likely that some or all of the jurors are saying: 'There but

As perverse a creature as man is, it would seem that teams of psychologists, traffic safety officials and medical experts should be able to arrive at a means for convincing all American drivers that even mild drinking makes driving

One of the experts observed in Pittsburgh that the extent of the problem rests with the fact that more than half the people of drinking age do drink, at least once in awhile. What's really tough, he might have added, is that practically all Americans of driving age do drive.

dustry going and surely David Dubinsky, who dominates both In fact, Queen Elizabeth sets labor and capital in such matters, is happy that we live in an era when women look upon dresses as of equal importance with the national defense.

It keeps the sewing machines going and the designers active And when it comes to equality of opportunity, Seventh Avenue, in New York, battles against the dressmakers in Paris.

Neither Mrs. Herbert Hoover nor Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt was much concerned about her clothes. They had other things to think about. In fact, Mrs. Roosevelt has developed into such a great personality since she has been widowed that one wonders whether it may not be possible that she was more shrewd than her husband.

Certainly she has made a place for herself, irrespective of her late husband, and whether one adores her, as many do, or flouts her, as some do, no one can ignore her.

Of Mrs. Harry Truman it can be said that she was true to her character and did not permit the Presidency to affect her. She remained Mrs. Harry Truman and was not given any unconstitutional titles. She eschewed prominence, undoubtedly feeling that it was bad enough

However, when daughter Marcent airletter sheet will have garet grew up, she took to singing and everybody sympathized with her except a nasty critic or two who spoke ill of her efforts. Margaret behaved modestly and did not abuse her White House prerogatives. She came through the ordeal of being a President's daughter without in any way lessening the people's respect for her.

She married properly, an American newspaperman, which is indeed a noble profession. They are living happily ever after and avoid being noted in the gossip columns which naturally a sound newspaperman would do.

Of Mrs. Mamie Eisenhower it can be said that she took the job of being the President's wife seriously and did as well as her poor health and her husband's ailments permitted.

To the public, she appeared to be an affectionate daughter and a loyal wife and grandmother. Neither Mamie nor her daughter-in-law bothered much about clothes and hair-dos or even about furniture.

Both ladies came out of the White House well-thought of by the people of their country who knew nothing of them until Ike became President and may know less hereafter as they appear to be shy people who disdain publicity.

And so we have marked the history of dressmaking and recent Presidents' wives. As for the current First Lady of the Land, I shall not make comment lest I be accused of partisanship and love of physical beauty, and such. This era seems to be a dressmaker's opportunity and giory and perhaps we shall one day have such a when Floyd Hay was elected one in the Cabinet to bespeak to teach in the Pocono Town-

A more important reason for the proposed change, however, relates to the growing accumulation of "soft" currencies owned by or owed to the U.S. Government. Of more than $6 billion in outstanding loans at the end of 1960, almost $4 billion was to be repaid in local currencies, most of which won't be exchangeable for dollars for many years to come.

According to one projection, the U.S. would own $150 billion in "soft" currencies if current programs were continued to the year 2000 without change.

Mindful of this trend, the Administration proposed dollar repayment under the revamped and expanded development loan program. But the loans aren't likely to be any "harder" than in the past. Borrowers may be given up to 50 years to repay the loans, at little or no interest, with repayment to begin in 10

"Old Wine" - For the rest, President Kennedy's "new look" proposal adds up to "old wine in new bottles." Most of the programs authorized under the 10year-old Mutual Security Act would be continued without much change, under new labels. Here are the major pieces of

The International Cooperation Administration (which handles non-military grant aid) and the Development Loan Fund would be merged into a new Agency for International Development (AID) in the State Department. T be sure that you are getting quality product, ask a friend of neighbor who has had a satisfactory paint job which brand he used or consult your established reputable paint dealer.

The most widely used and effective paint for concrete pools is usually referred to as swimming pool paint. This is a solventthinned paint based on a synthetic resin, usually chlorinated rubber and is not to be confused with the water-thinned latex paints. There are also solvent-thinned vinyl paints, but these must be applied by a professional painter. Both types contain strong solvents and should be used over previously applied paint only with caution. Another popular type of alkali resistant paint is Portland cement paint which must be applied only to wet, previously unpainted surfaces and be kept wet while it is curing, usually by filling the pool after it has been applied.

Steel swimming pools require a different kind of paint system. First comes a metal conditioner, then a coat of anti-corrosive marine primer, this to be followed by a topcoat designed for marine use that will withstand continuous immersion. Solvent-thinned swimming pool paints are also recom-

The Wyckoff Shopper

Hollywood (AP)-Parisian designer Pierre Balmain approves The month of May was a dilly, so far as gift giving was concerned. NINE of my friends and relatives had birthdays, and with some I am on the "deferred treat-"I think Jackie Kennedy has a great flair for clothes-very ment" plan. I buy a gift as the budget allows, and surmodern and elegant—and she's casual about it. And I admire her prise them belatedly. I have resolved never more to form close attachments to men, women, or children born of 'hat! But there is the usual ever, I believe the innate creativioned strawberry shortcake, potato salad, baked beans, hot held at the corner by the Canaman wanting to look like her."

Harry Congdon, of our Men's Shop, has countless ideas for Father Day giving. What about Arrow shirts, he asks? Or shorts. What about a handsome necktie, wash and wear slacks, a terry robe for home or beach, or a MacGregor Drizzler jacket? What about handkerchiefs, golf umbrellas, socks, pajamas? WHAT about COMING IN AND LOOKING FOR YOURSELF! . . . Every once in awhile I have occasion to tell you about a very fine thing my fellow employees have done that makes me particularly proud to be a Wyckoff employee. Here's another example: just a few weeks ago a group of our girls heard about an institution for the mentally retarded where, despite their ages, the girl inmates are children with a mentality not exceeding nine years. Some of these eternally young people are greatly loved by their families, and are well provided for. But others have never had a visitor and never have the quarter necessary to visit the canteen each week. When others have guests, or are taken "shopping", they sob bitterly. Why some parents feel ashamed of their unfortunates, I don't know it's human nature, perhaps, even though not parentnature. Well, before long I heard that Jean Decker in our gift wrap center was knitting dolls (adorable, too!) and some of the girls were covering cylindrical boxes with pretty paper and packing them with goodies. Every one was to receive one. Quarters also went into the kitty enough quarters to take all the previously banned "children" to the canteen for months to come. I mentioned this on the air, and before I knew it, two of my good friends had contributed a dollar apiece to the fund we at Wyckoff's have established. What's more, we've also asked for the birthdates of the neglected patients, so that EVERYONE will have a gift on her birthday. Those who cooperated, are happier for having done sobut saddened by the realization that all one does is actually only a drop in the bucket to what should be done in this tragedy-ridden world of ours.
